Creek section of Sullivan County, Tenn. County officers discovered splotches of blood in front of a house occupied by Tom Pickle, also of the Big Creek section. Other traces of blood, which, they said, appeared to have been covered with earth, were found nearby, and a crimson trail guided a sheriff's posse into the mountains, to end at a spot over which vultures hovered. Pailure to locate Sellars' body has not yet shaken the officers' belief that murder has been done.

and 45 years after its disappearance during a courthouse fire, an old will, written in a trembling hand on paper now mellowed with age, has been reof Charles F. Sellers, 67 years old, 1471 Monroe street northwest.

Sellers, clerk of the Juvenile Court in Washington, sent the will to Probate Judge Leuders, Hamilton County, Ohio, three days ago. He had believed it lost until the widow of his brother, James A. Sellers, of Jeffersonville, Ind., sent it to him after his brother's death C. A. R. Will Honor a month ago.

Charles F. Sellers took the will as a souvenir during the Cincinnati race riot in the spring of 1884. The murder of a white man by a colored man, and subsequent jury tampering, precipi-tated a race riot there on April 1, 1884. The Ohio National Guard was called out to maintain order. Sellers, then 22 years old, was a first lieutenant of Company D, Fourteenth Ohio National Guard. The regiment entrained for Cincin-nati and found the mob out of control of its leaders and in control of the city. The Hamilton County courthouse was on fire.

The Cincinnati police, cornered by the enraged and drunken mob, had erected barricades around the jail, across Main street from the blazing courthouse. They were confined to an area two and a half city blocks square, and barely kept the mob at bay with rife fire. They were unable to fight the courthouse flames. The mob ran riot.

HELEN MORGAN FREE IN NIGHT CLUB CASE

Ziegfeld Star Is Acquitted of Maintaining Volstead Law Nuisance.

COLLAPSES AT VERDICT

New York, April 18 (U.P.).-Helen Morgan, winsome star of Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," joined Texas Guinan in victory tonight over the dry agents of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt. A Federal jury, after five hours' deliberation, acquitted her of charges of maintaining a nuisance under the Volstead law.

ing a nuisance under the Volstead law. The jury had been back from dinner only 15 minutes at 8:30 when it announced it had reached a verdict. Federal Judge Thomas, presiding, was uptown eating. He rushed back downtown to the courthouse.

Miss Morgan, unlike Texas Guinan, had shown deep emotion at the possibility that she might be sent to jail. She had fought gamely to control her nerves during the jury's deliberations. When its "not guilty" verdict was read by the elderly foreman—one of a jury of solid business men—she gave a hysterical scream-like cheer and collapsed weeping on the lawyers' table where weeping on the lawyers' table where

Miss Morgan faced a maximum pen-alty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine if found guilty on the nuisance charges brought against her by Federal dry agents who raided "Helen Morgan's summer house"—a night club at which she performed. The jury had been variously reported in corridor gossip as having deadlocked after balloting 10 to 2 for acquittal, 11 to 1 for acquittal and as being equally

To the surprise and even indignation of the spectators who had watched the course of the trial throughout two and one-half days, she failed to testify in

"I'm not worried, though. I hope I'm her manager forever," said Bentham.
Perhaps fearing the devastating effect the mere appearance of the defendant might have on the elderly jurors, Leslie E. Salter, the special assistant sent to New York by Mabel Walker Willebrandt to prosecute night club cases, made frequent mention of "American womanhood" in his speech to the jury.

William G. Conley. The coronation, with the youthful queen seated high on a throne of pink, gold and white and surrounded by a court of 300, including 65 princesses from three States, guards of honor, sponsors, maids of honor, pages and heralds, was the climax of the first day of the festival. The United States Navy Band, Lieut. Charles Benter, director, played during the entire ceremony.

A crowd of approximately 25,000 swarmed over the Handley High School grounds to witness the coronation cere-monies, which were designed to follow closely the crowning of an Old World ch. Heralds in court dress came to the edge of the great porch and sounded trumpets in four directions. Guards of honor stood rigidly at attention. Maids of honor, princesses, pages, crown and scepter bearers and other functionaries passed out of the High School Building and down the broad stairway to the stadium, followed in regal values by the lovely West Virginia.

Third: A joint resolution was introduced to test the constitutionality of the liquor treaties with foreign countries whereby they bring liquor under seal into American territorial waters. This test is in connection with a constitutional amendment proposed to further tighten the dry laws. &c.

The prohibition bombshell to be exploded by Senator Blease is described in his own words:

"I am going to insist upon a thorough investigation of what transpired aboard the United States Government ship Ancon during a recent trip from Panama when senators and representatives were among the passengers returning on official business. I am going to insist that the American people know how many Congress members drank on that trip, how much they drank, how much liquor they brought aboard when the ship stopped at Port au Prince. His fine voice fitted the role well, and it was noted that he has improved notably in his firamatic ability since he last was heard here. Close behind him in artistic expellence was Armand Tokayan, whose voice in the role of Turiddu was extellent. Nor should be overlocked the good work of Marion Telva as Lola and Philline Falco as Lucia.

The presentation in mounting, scenary and costuming was up to the metropolitan standard, and the production was given with smoothness and excellent timing.

The conductor was Vincenzo Beliza, who demonstrated his thorough cousintance with the Italian operatic

Memories of trust arose in Edward Johnson's full and no higher compliment and be paid a singer of this day than compare him with that master of sterdsy. Johnson, mellow and powful tenor, had the dramatic quality sential to the role. In his "Vesta La lubba," the test of a Canio, he arose real operatic heights, but atill not after to the attainment of Caruso in the same song.

Other Artists Charm in Roles.

Tditha Fleischer, as Nedda, kept close to the traditional interpretation of that role. Her voice was a consumate actress, managing to encompass in her acting the suggestion of the coquette who plays with fire, not caring for the devastation which was to follow in the wake of her playing. "The Bird Song," with its trills and lark-like tones, was magnificently rendered and she well deserved the ovation which followed her singing. Her voice had sweetness and vitality and yet power.

Angelo Bada was an effective Beppe and George Cehanovsky was a successful Silvio.

On Saturday, at a matinee, the last performance of the opera company will be given, when Verdi's Aida will be sung, with Mile. Ponselle again singing in one of her favorite roles. Marion Telva will sing Amneris and Louis d'Angelo will take the part of the king, while a group of operatic stars will appear in the other roles. The appointment of Francis C. Caffey as one of the Southern District judges was a bitter pill for the organization to swallow. He is a Democrat. President Coolidge had nominated him but the organization tried to persuade Mr. Hoover not to resulmit his name. Strangely enough, the one appointment by Mr. Coolidge which the New York organization was capable of stopping. that of Strycker, was indorsed by Eilhu Root, for whom Mr. Hoover is known to have the highest regard. This prompted the inquiry, and the negative reply as to whether the new publishest policy would include the publicity policy would include the names of those who indorsed men who were not appointed.

The indorsement list did not tell the complete story of the appointments. In the case of Wheat, for example, all of his indorsements had to do with his consideration for the New York judgeship. Although the names of Attorney General Mitchell and Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court do not appears as "groups," those" Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, do not appear as "among those" who indorsed him, it was their influence that carried the greatest weight. In this connection there was some speculation as to why Mr. Mitchell did not want to advance him to the solicitor generalship of the Department of Justice, as that place is vacant. It is understood, however, that this place is to go to New York if the organization can produce a suitable man.

The New York organization raised the "carpet-bagger" argument against Wheat and urged upon Mr. Hoover that if he must be named to a judgeship he be given the District vacancy. Wheat was not indorsed by either the local Bar association, so there is little comfort for them in the appointment.

The Missouri Republican organization was disappointed in the naming of District Judge Archibald K. Gardner, of South Dakota, to be circuit judge of the Eighth circuit. It had wanted District Judge Ferris, of St. Louis, elevated to the place so that it would have another district appointment at its command. The list of indorsers of Gardner's elevation, previously recommended by Goolidge, does not include either Senator Norbeck or Senator McMaster, of South Dakota, although they are included in the list sponsoring Gardner's successor on the district bench, A. Farm Relief Fight Like Former Scrap the way.

Debenture Plan Is Causing Just as Much Trouble as Equalization Fee.

(Associated Press.) The Senate and House entrenched themselves for a farm relief fight yesterdsy with the prospect that the export debenture proposal of the National Grange will cause a situation reminiscent of the controversy that broke over the equalization fee of the old McNary-Haugen bill.

At the direction of its agriculture ommittee, the Senate received from hairman McNary a farm bill which acludes a provision for the use of the debenture plan with exportation of crop surpluses. In the House, the farm leaders opened the relief debate by laying the ground work for their opposition to this proposal, which has not been indorsed by President Hoover. The farm bills now before the two branches of Congress are practically identical except for the debenture section; and this proposal, voted down overwhelmingly by the House agriculture committee, seems destined to

TINKHAM PROPOSES NEW HALL OF FAME

Would Remove All Figures of Statesmen From Their Places in Capital.

TELLS OF WIDE CRITICISM

Establishment of an American Hall of Fame to house the statues now reposing in Statuary Hall, at the Capitol, as well as those yet to be received is the aim of a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts The crowded condition in Statuary Hall, Tinkham declared, "has been source of ridicule and contempt for America's lack of dignity and culture for years. The receipt of the remaining statues yet to come will add to the criticism "

Tinkham's bill creates a commissio to study the problem and to prepare plans for the establishment of a Hall of Fame Building separate from the Capitol. The commission would be al-lowed $50,000 for expenses, and at the letion of its duties would recom-the necessary legislation to Con-States Donate Statues.

LITVINOFF DEMANDS ARMS DECLARATION

Geneva Commission, Avoiding Vote, Submits Question to Steering Committee.

SOVIETS PROTEST MOVE

Geneva, April 18 (U.P.).—The League of Nations preparatory disarr commission spent its time today trying to sidestep the demand of M. M. Lit-vinoff, acting Soviet foreign minister, that the delegates say whether they favor actual reduction of world arma-ments or mere limitation.

The commission finally decided to ask its steering committee for an ad-

The commission finally decided to ask its steering committee for an advisory opinion on the extent of the commission's competency to pass on the soviet proposals. A vote was postponed until tomorrow to permit the committee to render an opinion.

Litvinoff, head of the Soviet delegation and sponsor of a proposal to reduce all armaments by 50 per cent, saved his project from quick defeat yesterday when he demanded that a vote be taken on each of the three principles involved, despite the fact that virtually the entire commission opposed him.

First, an individual one, whereby each state fixes its own reductions; second, permission for the disarmament conference to fix arbitrarily the reductions of each state, and third, the Soviet method of applying an impartial criterion for each state. Word from Paris that interviews with the late Marshal Foch, soon to be pub-lished, would show that the Allied generalissimo had intervened during war to prevent a move to have Gen. Pershing relieved of command of the American Expeditionary Forces was received without comment by Washing

This, they indicated, had run counter to the desires of some of the Allied civil as well as military leaders. Gen. Pershing was under strong pressure from the time he reached France, in 1917, to recommend that American troops be employed as replacements in British and French armies to make up for the war wastage.

Baker, been in a frame of mind to have accepted a foreign suggestion that Pershing be relieved, even if one had been received. At no time during or since the war has there been any suggestion that President Wilson or Baker ever considered making a change in the command of the forces in France, and, on the contrary, it has been said officially that Gen. Pershing received the complete and full support of both the President and the Secretary throughout the period of American participation.

Harrison Tells Society of Journalists Minnesota Precedent Must Be Fought.

SEES PERIL OF TYRANNY

Arising in defense of the freedom of the press, Walter M. "The recent refusel of the House of Representatives of the Minnesota Assembly to repeal the newspaper 'gag' law passed in 1925 has created a situation which merits the active interests of this group which is seriously of this group, which is seriously menaced by this precedent," Mr. Har-rison declared.

High Court Fight Planned.

"No larger club could be held over the newspaper profession by the judiciary. Under such a tyrannical statute a corrupt judge might silende any fair comment about his derelictions and kill a newspaper by a temporary writ that would ruin a going business before the editor might have an opportunity to prove his case during his day in court. Miss Lucille Martin, 26 years old, who came to New York from Virginia, won her M. A. degree at Columbia and last September became one of the youngest teachers at Packer Collegiate Institute, fashionable girls' school in Brooklyn, recently signed her contract to continue in her position next year, but she desired something else.

Her suppressed desire, it was revealed today, was to become a lawyer. Every night after her work and play with the eighteen girls in the kindergarten department, where she was the assistant teacher, Miss Martin would return to her ninth-floor room in the Y. W. C. A. on Third avenue, Brooklyn. Here she would pore over legal books and cases until far into the night.

This ardous outside study, however, was not known even to Miss Martin's closest friends. Packer authorities knew nothing about her life outside of school, only that she was "very silent, capable, faithful and poised."

This morning the maid at the Brooklyn Y. W. C. A. went to clean the room and found the girl, her wrists cut with a sharp pen knife, hanging from a rope attached to the doorpost. The body was cut down by a patrolman. No notes were left by Miss Martin to explain the suicide, only the numerous legal memos and textbooks scattered about the room.

The suicide came as a complete surprise to Packer Institute, where, in the offices of Dr. John H. Denbigh, princi-

AMERICAN EDITORS.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors by holding its annual sessions in Washington enables its members to come into close contact with public officials and to study the operations of the Government at close range. The acquaintances formed between editors and public men are of the utmost value, both in the elimination of prejudices and in bringing out the facts which are so essential in forming public opinion. The editors are in a position to give legislators and executive officers a true picture of public opinion in all sections of the country, while public men can furnish detailed facts to the editors concerning governmental projects and policies. The better understanding resulting from association between the Nation's journalists and its governmental representatives can not but result in closer cooperation between the people and their Government.

Washington at this season is attired in beauty. Given a smiling sky, no other city in the world presents the charm to Americans that is offered by the Nation's Capital. It is now revealing more completely the majestic plan of its founder, whose foresight as a city planner as well as a nation builder stamps him as foremost among Americans. In spite of the narrow vision of legislators during the last 100 years, Washington is developing into one of the most noble cities in the world. As a repository of American history it is unique. Its very buildings and streets are archives of surpassing interest to citizens whose forefathers helped to establish and save the Republic. No American can visit Washington without refreshing his patriotism and renewing his loyalty to the institutions that have preserved popular government while other institutions, ranging from autocracy to communism, have wrecked foreign countries.

The American editors, as interpreters of public thought, are wise in coming to Washington and invigorating their hearts and minds by fresh contact with the Government will be in a better position to pass judgment upon men and measures by reason of the accurate first-hand information obtained here, and the Government will be correspondingly benefited by their work.

REGULATION OF COMMUNICATIONS.

Senator Couzens has reintroduced his bill providing for the creation of a Federal Communications Commission which would function in its field as the Interstate Commerce Commission functions in interstate commerce. The commission would consist of five members. It would take over the supervision of radio as now vested in the Radio Commission and the Department of Commerce. In addition it would take over from the Interstate Commerce Commission the regulation of telephone and telegraph companies. Hearings on the Couzens bill probably will begin some time next month.

Throughout the controversy that has raged around radio and its control have run charges of monoply. The Independent Radio Association charged that the chain broadcasters were effecting a monopoly of broadcasting. Charges of monopoly in manufacture and sale of equipment have gone through the courts. Recent merger negotiations between cable and radio companies met a stumbling block in similar charges. Senator Couzens was moved to introduce his bill by the tentative agreement reached between the Radio Corporation and the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. for a merger. "If the nature of the situation is such that a monopoly is in the best interests of the country," says Senator Couzens, "I am willing to be convinced, but there must be strict regulation." Because there has been no concerted effort to establish whether or not radio is, in effect, a natural monopoly the Couzens measure is of great importance. Its introduction paves the way for an inquiry into this subject, and the hearings should be turned toward this end. If radio is a monopoly it should be recognized as such and a commission created for its

CONTESTS IN THE HOUSE.

The House has wisely amended its rules so that election contests will not be taken up until the regular session next December. Memers whose eligibility is being questioned have taken the oath of office and will serve in the regular manner until their cases are given asideration by election committees. Thus the agenda of the extra session will not be cluttered up with election controversies, and in the meantime no State will be deprived of its rightful representation in the House.

None of the controversies affect the qualications of the members who have been seated. The question as to Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen's right to represent the Fourth District of Florida is a legal one, based on the status of her ship. She was naturalized in 1925 after the death of her husband, an Englishman, but it is alleged that she has not been a resident of the United States for seven years as required by the Constitution. Augustus McCloskey presented a certificate of election from the Texas State return board, which entitled him to a seat in spite of the certificate of election given to his opponent, Harry M. Wurzbach by a county return board. The other two contests involve Louis Ludlow, of Indiana, who is opposed by former Representative Ralph E. Updike, and Vincent Palmisano, of Maryland, whose election is challenged by former Representative J. P. Hill. In each case the House recognized the candidate presenting a certificate of election from the proper State officials. There is little probability that any of the members thus admitted will have to be replaced after hearings have been conducted by the elections committee. But if such necessity should arise, the change can easily be made and no State will have been deprived of its constitutional rights. The American people will not fail to note the contrast between this policy and the arbitrary methods of the Senate in dealing with the Vare case.

A NEW INDIAN POLICY.

Appointment of James C. Rhoads as Commissioner of Indian Affairs is of special importance because of the reversal of the Government's policy toward the Indians since Dr. Wilbur became Secretary of the Interior. The selection gives assurance that the new policy will be put into effect. Mr. Rhoads is a Philadelphia banker. He brings to his new position extensive business experience as well as deep sympathy with the red race engendered by his sociological studies and his activities as president of the Indian Rights Association.

The Indians are maintained on reservations with little direct contact with the white race. The program of the Indian Bureau, which aims to make the aborigines useful citizens, has failed in many respects, and the administration of the bureau has been the subject of numerous investigations. Secretary Wilbur has announced that the traditional method of dealing with the Indians will be abandoned. An effort will be made to make them economically independent, thus terminating the custodial relationship between them and the Government. This is a tremendous task requiring reorganization of the Indian service and formulation of plans for absorption of the Indian into the agricultural and industrial life of the Nation. An alert business executive who understands Indian nature is the right man to do the job.

It is to be hoped that Congress will keep its hands off from Indian affairs while the administration is getting its program under way. Too often the welfare of the Indians has been mixed up in political schemes. Some of the investigations conducted in the past have served a useful purpose by focusing attention on the weakness of the "reservations" policy. But Secretary Wilbur has inaugurated a new era in the Indian Bureau, and he should be given a chance to work out his policy without interference. The Indian Rights Association and other groups which have been critical of the manner in which Indian affairs were conducted should have a chance to put some of their own theories in practice.

JUSTICE ALFRED A. WHEAT.

In nominating Alfred A. Wheat to be justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia President Hoover has evidently taken the advice of Attorney General Mitchell. Mr. Wheat has been for the last seven years assistant to the Solicitor General, and has acted as Solicitor General since Mr. Mitchell was appointed to the head of the Department of Justice.

Service in the Solicitor General's office is the best possible training for the Federal bench, if an attorney possesses other necessary qualifications. Mr. Wheat has proved his high qualities in an exacting place, and he is especially qualified to perform certain duties that will await him as justice. He may be regarded as a Washingtonian, having studied law here. He organized the business department of the Central High School and after some service as instructor went to New York to practice law. He returned seven years ago to serve as assistant to the Solicitor General. and during that time has had charge of many important cases. That the new justice will be confirmed by the Senate and will give good service on the District bench is a foregone conclusion. Such men as he are desirable acquisitions to the Federal judiciary. If the President will keep his judicial appointments up to the high standard he has set in the selection of Mr. Wheat the Federal bench will be strengthened and the ends of justice well served.

THE ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT.

High cost of transportation was mentioned by President Hoover in his message to Congress as one of the factors responsible for the present difficulties of agriculture. "The Government," he said, "has a special mandate from the recent election * * * to further develop our waterways." He was not specific as to what that development should consist of, but it is reasonable to suppose that he had the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project in mind, since this was one of the features of the farm relief program he advocated during his campaign.

A movement has been started in the House to get the program for development of the St. Lawrence definitely under way. Representative McLeod has offered a joint resolution which would put the Government on record as being ready to proceed with the waterway as soon as Canada approves. Representative Mapes has introduced a bill asking that the 1922 report of the International Joint Commission be accepted by Congress, and that an international board of engineers be appointed to report within one year detailed plans for construction of the project. The President would be authorized to negotiate with Canada on appointment of the board. While much can be done immediately toward development of waterways within the United States, it does not appear that the appointment of an American-Canadian board of engineers at this time would expedite the St. Lawrence project. The United States and Canada must reach an agreement before any plans will be serviceable. So long as the Canadian provinces are at odds the Dominion government is unable to undertake practical negotiations with the United States. The equitable use of the St. Lawrence would be of great benefit to western Canada as well as to the Western States, but the jealousy with which the maritime provinces look upon the proposed development does not indicate that an understanding will be reached very soon, Some of the western provinces are afraid that the United States will proceed to develop an all-American route through New York State and thus place American wheat regions at an advantage over Canada in reaching the European market. At present all that can be hoped for, apparently, is that Prime Minister King may succeed in bringing the provinces into an accord, upon which he can proceed to negotiate with the United States.

DEPRESSED INDUSTRIES

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The portion of President Hoover's message to Congress which was of the greatest interest to the people of Pennsylvania and the East was that dealing with the tariff. He had previously expressed his desire for a "limited revision" of the schedules at the special session. Naturally, there was much uncertainty, and even anxiety, as to what he meant by "limited." For the hearings on the proposed tariff bill by the ways and means committee were decidedly comprehensive. During daily meetings extending over eight weeks more than 1,100 witnesses were heard, and their testimony was recorded in 11,000 printed pages. The more or less valid claims to additional protection by almost the entire range of American industries that are affected by the tariff were presented.

In his message Mr. Hoover supplied this clear-cut definition of his meaning:

It would seem to me that the test of necessity for revision is in the main whether there has been a substantial slackening of activity in an industry during the last few years and a consequent decrease of employment due to insurmountable competition in the products of that industry.

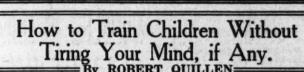

Here is a "rule of reason" with which would-be beneficiaries of tariff protection can not legitimately quarrel. The question with which American business and industry are now concerned is how effectively and justly this rule is to be applied by Congress. The present law, enacted seven years ago as an antidote to the Democratic low tariff, set up an entire new array of protective schedules. The protective principle having been restored -to the great advantage of America's wageearners-no necessity for a complete rewriting of the tariff law, prolonging the period of uncertainty for business, is indicated. It is for each industry requiring more protection to establish its case to the satisfaction of the President and Congress in accordance with the prescribed test. Apply this test to the textile industry in Philadelphia and New England and what is the answer? There is no disputing the testimony of its spokesmen that "constantly increasing imports have brought about a condition which approaches stagnation. Most of our textile mills could be kept running regularly, under full-time employment, if they had that part of the domestic market which is now in the hands of foreign producers."

How about cement, another once-flourishing industry of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and adjoining States? European competitors have taken full advantage of the fact that it is on the free list. Employment in this industry has been declining rapidly, not only during "the last few years," the period Mr. Hoover would consider, but during the last few months, as shown by the report of the National Association of Manufacturers. And recently a cement cartel has been organized in Europe for a further invasion of the American market and the underselling of our manufacturers in South America. The adversity of this industry has affected many others, such as the producers of coal, gypsum, cotton sacks, mill supplies and machinery, electric power and transportation.

To these depressed industries, which have suffered so severely from foreign competition, Senator David A. Reed would add pig iron and plate glass, which normally give employment to so many workers in Pennsylvania. And in his address before the Union League last fall Gov. Fisher pointed out the peculiar disadvantages of the industries of this State in combating foreign competition, because of their location so near the seaboard, where the distribution of imports is not handicapped by the high cost of transportation to increase their sale price.

These industries and others which might be mentioned need make no apology for seeking now the additional tariff protection to which they are entitled. In the light of President Hoover's plain assurance that he wishes to have the tariff bulwarks against foreign competition raised and strengthened wherever the necessity is shown, the duty of Congress is clear. It is to provide the means whereby the industries that have suffered so heavily may emerge from their troubles with a consequent gain in employment and general definitely. J. C. WEEMS. The Proposed City-State. proposed Federal constitutional amend ment agitated locally to give the District of Columbia two senators and members in the House in proportion to the population would, if enacted into law, make the District a city-State-a State in so far as it would have every voting power of and equal voting power to that of the several States in Federal

That statement of fact is embodied in the proposed amendment. If the amendment does not mean what it says, then why burden the Congress with it? The proponents say it would not make a city-State out of the District. Then what would it be? That is a fair question. That question must be answered.

The two senators and members in the House from the District would have equal voting power with the sovereign States on all measures coming before Congress for action-treaties, revenue, appropriations, declaration of war, confirmation of presidential appointments, impeachment and trial of a President or other Federal official, election of a President or Vice President if the elections were thrown into Congress, admittance of new States, status of our possessions," &c. In all Federal matters then, the District would be equal to any State whether the power were legislative, administrative or judicial.

This Federal Union is composed of 48 sovereign States, each having exactly the same power under the Federal Constitution in the three coordinate branches of the Federal Government. This proposed amendment would give the District of Columbia the same powers enjoyed by the States in this

Students of political economy would wish to know what the new major political unit would be, if it would not be a city-State.

KARA DENIZ.

"Black sea" is a literal translation of he Turkish "Kara Deniz," says the Pathfinder. This body of water was so named by the Turks supposedly because of its dense fogs and violent storms, "black" being used in the sense of bleak, gloomy and forbidding.

The early Greek navigators called it "Pontus Axenus," meaning inhospitable sea or sea unfriendly to strangers, be-cause of its barren shores and its want f islands and harbors where the navigator could find shelter. Later, how-ever, after Greek colonists had settled on the shores of this sea, the name was changed to "Pontus Euxinus," meaning hospitable sea, or sea friendly to strangers.

Federals Workers' Bills Reproposed

Measure, Seeking Free Books for District Schools, Is Urged Again.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, reintroduced his three bills to improve the lot of Federal workers yesterday; and at the same time Senator Dale (Republican), of Vermont, reintroduced his bill to liberalize the civil service retirement law. Another bill that was proposed again yesterday was that of Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, providing free text books for Washington high school children. This measure seems almost certain to pass at the regular session beginning in December.

The Brockhart bills would give to low-paid employes the raises they were entitled to under the Welch salary act. would scrap the Personnel Classification Board and set up a civil service court of appeals, and, in case of personnel reductions, would protect the jobs of those workers whose State quotas had not been filled. text books for Washington high school

DELAY IN REPAIRING MARKET DEFENDED

Work at Western Held Up, Says Dougherty, to Obtain Best Possible Plan.

BIDS TO BE OPENED MAY 2

Criticism of District officials for delay in completing repairs to the Westrn Market, expressed by the West End tizens Association at its last meetng. is not justified, Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty declared yesterday in a letter to David Babp, author of the association's criticism.

the association's criticism.

Preparation of the plans for the refrigeration and electric lighting of the remodeled market, Dougherty said, had been delayed with the purpose of providing the best possible.

"As a result of study," Dougherty said in his letter to Babp, "several modifications were made in the specifications which were finally completed on April 15. The work was immediately advertised and proposals will be opened on May 2 for this work.

"When this contract is awarded and the remainder of funds available is determined, a further contract will be let, based on specifications already prepared, for the stands.

"You will note that this will care for all of the work contemplated in the appropriation, to be authorized prior to June 30, and it is not believed that any unnecessary or undue delay has occurred in this matter."

Dougherty made the letter public, he said, because he wanted the residents of the city to know that the District

Al Smith Won't Attend Jefferson Day Dinner

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—The New York World said today that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith has declined to attend the annual Jefferson Day dinner of the National Democratic Club at the Hotel Commodore next Saturday. His decision, said the newspaper, is due to a desire to keep in the background of the political picture at present.

Smith, however, is expected to attend a joint meeting tomorrow of the executive and advisory committees of the Democratic national committee. The meeting was called by John J. Raskob, national chairman, to discuss ways and means to wipe out the party's deficit, amounting approximately to today or you may be disappointed-for first come first served must be the rule from now on.

Even though you have other dictionaries, they are all out of date as compared to this new authoritative, comprehensive book. It is new, up to date in every particular, Its scholarship is of the highest class. More words are correctly defined than in any similar volume.

It contains thousands of new words, many not heretofore published in a dictionary.

In addition to the larger vocabulary it contains a complete summary of English grammar, an enlarged list of synonyns and antonyms, Dictionary of foreign words and phrases, commerce and law and many facts worth knowing.

It is handsomely bound in dark green textile leather, the most durable known to the trade, with gold stamping.

'Hams" Wait For Terrel On Licenses

Supervisor to Report on Dutch Model Proposal. "Red Mill" Light Opera, Uncut, Coming, First of 15 in N. B. C. Series.

The army of 16,000 amateur radio erators, a goodly representation of will await with keen interest the report of William D. Terrell, chief radio supervisor of the Department of Comerce and probably the foremost American "friend of the hams," on the proosal of the Dutch delegates at the closed at Prague to standardize the license qualifications for the world's

The Dutch have a model license which they regard as suitable to cover the operations of amateurs in all the tries which license them. It defines the national and international status of each amateur and is particularly devoted to protective measures gainst espionage and other abuses of the radio privilege. It governs international correspondence between the amateurs and forbids "working" sta-tions in foreign countries where such an exchange is prohibited by the law. It is understood that there is very little opposition to the proposed universal amateur license on the part of the officials of this country. However, the matter has been left in the hands the matter has been left in the hands of Mr. Terrell, who will not return to this country until after the Safety of Life at Sea Conference, opening at London yesterday. He is the delegate on wireless matters with the American delegation, which is headed by Representative Wellace White, jr., of Maine, chairman of the House committee of marine and fisheries.

For the first time in the history of radio, light opera will be regularly broadcast with full score and dialogue, beginning a week from Sunday night, when the National Light Opera Company produces a virtually uncut version of Victor Herbret's "The Red Mill" oper the National Broadcasting Co.'s system. "The Red Mill" was one of the most famous vehicles of Montgomthe most famous vehicles of Montgom-ery and Stone in their heyday. No one who ever saw it will forget the ride Fred Stone and the lamented Dave Montgomery took hanging on to the revolving blades of the old Dutch windmill.

Starting at 10:15 o'clock in the evening, the presentation will provide an our and a half of musical and drahour and a haif of musical and dra-matic entertainment, as complete as generous use of libretto, lyrics and score can make it. "The Red Mill" will be the first of a series of fifteen light operas to be broadcast on the same full-length plan each Sunday night. Because of a full Sunday eve-ning bill the operas will not be heard through a local station, but may be picked up through WJZ, New York; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WBAL, Baltimore, and others to be announced later.

The Radio School of the Bible of the Moody Bible Institute, broadcasting over WMBI, 1,080 kilocycles, 277.6 meters, puts its summer term course on the air May 3, continuing until July 30. Dr. H. Framer Smith, director of the pastor's course of the institute, will continue his series, "Through the Bible Book by Book," and will be on the air each Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, beginning May 3.

"Outlines of Old Testament History," by Iris Ikeler McCord, will be continued each Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, beginning May 3. The period covered will be from Solomon to Christ.

A former radio teacher, the Rev. Harold L. Lundquist, of the institute faculty, will be back on the air Tues-faculty, will be back on the air Tuesday afternoons at 3 o'clock, beginning May 7, with a series of studies of high value and interest on "The Bible Doctrine of Faith."

A feature attracting considerable at on on the radio recently has been the Illini Singing Band, jazz orchestra and choristers from the University of Illinois. These young gentlemen have been made such a success of it that, though still students, they have made everal coast-to-coast theatrical tours.

The other night over the air, intro-ucing the orchestra, an announcer sked one of the boys: "How many stu-ents are now studying at the Univer-try of Tilinois" "About half of them," was the reply.

What Today Means to You April 19.

"ARIES."

"ARIES."

IF April 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from noon to 2:10 p. m., from 4:15 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:10 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger period is from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Today's planetary aspects are very favorable in every phase of life. They not only denote happiness but presage success in all work. Today will be auspicious for travel, for change, and for marriage. Make the most of such a propitious occasion!

children born today will be clever, rivacious and witty. They will pluck many of life's tokens with ease. As tudents they will be superficial, and perseverance will be a foreign element perseverance will be a foreign element in their make-up.

You have a brilliant, cold and calculating nature, and you are determined to protect yourself from the heartaches and sufferings which we must bear if we let life have its way with us. You will cautiously fence with Cupid, endeavoring to keep the thrust of its arrow from reaching the core of your heart. You suppress your finer, your kinder and your warmer emotions until you are cool and indifferent. You want to be loved and admired but you are not willing to give your share in return.

not willing to give your share in return.

In building a wall strong enough to shut sorrow out you have also eliminated joy. Not until some one or something has pulled down this wall, not until your heart has been plerced by the thorns of love, not until your heart glows from the warmth of love, will you live. Dare to live Let life whip you and scar you! Let life raise you up to the shining heights!

There is nothing abnormal about you. You are capable of deep feelings and strong emotions. It is your philosophy of life and not you that is wrong. If you leave life alone, life will leave you alone.

At heart you are naturally kind, your coldness is a pose. Fill your cup of life with the bitter and the sweet—it is worth it!

Drs. Tisdall and Brown go a step farther. They say the sun ray has no value as a remedy for rickets so long as it is below 5 degrees in the heavens. Briefly, let us say that since the sun is at 90 degrees when directly overhead and at 0 degree when it is on a level with the eye, 35 degrees means that it is slightly more than one-third the way to the vertical. Drs. Tisdall and Brown have studied this subject scientifically and patiently and no one knows it better or even as well as they. The sunceases to be red, it changes to a dazzling white too bright for the eye to stand some time before an elevation of 35 degrees is reached. In the far northee sun in winter does not reach this the sun in winter does not reach this level even at noon in the winter months. In these regions rickets abound. For the development of rickets the. equirement is for light starvation lasting somewhere about two months The locations in which there are much rickets are those in which the sun never reaches an elevation of 35 degrees during any day in a period of more than two months. Some other qualities of climate may prove to be factors. For instance, in some climates, for two months after the middle of February the sun is high enough to supply light of good quality, but the weather is too cold and there is too much cloud, fog and snow for children to be long out

In the summer time the heat is too great for outside exposure of bables between, say, 10 in the morning and 2 in the afternoon. At Toronto, where Drs. Tisdall and Brown work, the sun reaches 35 degrees at about 8 o'clock in the morning. Bables can be exposed from 8 to 10.a.m. But in places where Pfully the method of arriving at the "count" of a hand for the purposes of jumping partner's suitibids, but no statement has been made as to how those counts should be used after they have been determined. The rules may be stated as follows:

Jump partner's one-bid to two with a count of 13: to three with a count of 17: to four with a count of 21. Jump partner's two-bid to three with a count of 10: Jump partner's two-bid to three with a count of 12. Jump partner's two-bid to three with a count of 12. Jump partner's two-bid to four with one probable trick. Of course, we are speaking of original suit-bids. When jumping partner's suit-bid of one or two, normal support in the suit itself is a requisite equally with the count.

Those who do not wish to follow the change of making it when one partner and hid only one, and thereby shows teem that six tricks, unless the other has distinctly more than two tricks end it the side has a score, there is a time-codd at most will furnish game. Consequently, with a score it pays to jump from one to two with slightly less strength than should be required a count of 12 would justify a jump of partner's one when the bidder had a score of any kind, and a count of 11 would be sufficient when two tricks would give the bidder game.

Tomorrow we will illustrate them that the sufficient when the count.

NEW ADVANCE AIDED NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS OF YESTERDAY BY IMPROVED CREDIT

Pace of Stock Exchange Trading Quickens as Prices Continue to Gain.

CALL FUNDS 71/2 PER CENT

New York, April 18 (A.P.) .- Operaons for the advance were expanded to the largest proportions in more than a ortnight on the stock exchange today, s credit conditions showed further improvement and excellent first quarter pendent steel makers gave indications of what the reports of the two largest producers will show when published next week.

next week.

There was further quickening in the pace of trading, total sales aggregating 3,768,650 shares. Call money renewed at 8 per cent and was shaded to 7½. A development particularly encouraging to speculators was a drop to 8½ per cent in time money rates for all maturities, still an abnormally high rate, but indicating that the heavy apring commercial credit requirements spring commercial credit requirements have largely been met.

Federal Reserve weekly brokerage loan compilation, released after the market closed, however, was disappointing, showing a nominal drop of only $2,000,000, leaving the volume of loans practically where it was week ago, despite the sharp curtailment in stock market activity.

Out of Town Loans Increase.

New York banks withdrew $38,000,-"account of others" increased but $4,600,000. In addition to their withdrawals, the New York banks increased their borrowings at the Federal Reserve Bank by $21,000,000, presumably to provide funds for the midmonth set-retained its 5 per cent rediscount rate and reported a further release of $13,-$61,000 in earmarked gold. The Bank of England and the Bank of France of England and the Bank of France reported improved reserve ratios and rio changes in rates. Traders have generally become convinced, however, that the Federal Reserve Bank stands ready to take effective action should speculative activity again break out of bounds. The demand for a congressional investigation of the situation has served to discourage public participation in the market.

E. J. Cornish, president of the National Lead Co., told stockholders at their annual meeting that he approved the attitude of the Federal Reserve Bank toward speculation, and intimated that he considered National Lead common too high.

First Quarter Reports Made.

First Quarter Reports Made.

Prominent in the day's news were the first quarter reports of Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube, the former showing net equal to $3.03 per common share, against 15 cents in the like period of last year, and the latter, $4.22, against $1.43. E. H. Westlake, the president of the Miami Copper, and at the annual meeting that the company expected to get from 18½ to 16 cents a pound for its 1929 output. News that the reserve statement rould show no material decline in leans unsettled confidence in the late trading and caused considerable hasty realising. Another disquieting development was the breaking of a speculative bubble in Crex Carpet, which fell from its recent peak of 57 to 40. Also United discraft, after jumping to another new high at 111, fell back to 103½. Some of the high priced specialties in which the market is thin fluctuated widely, adams Express, after jumping about 30 points to a record price at 731, fell to 10. American Railway Express, after umping 13 points to a new peak at 180, lost half its gain. American Exumping 13 points to a new peak at Independent steels were strong, Bethlehem reaching its best price in years at 115%, and Republic nearly duplicating its top at 100%. Sloss Sheffield jumped 6 points. Some of the chemicals were bid up sharply, United States Industrial Alcohol, Commercial Solvents and Union Carbide reaching new high grounds, but the last two losing much of their gains. Marmon was again a strong point, touching a new high at 91% on reports that sales are running nearly double a year ago. Hershey Chocolate also broke into new high ground on buying in anticipation of inauguration of dividends.

Ingersoil Rand, Johns-Manville, American Can, Nash, Warner Bros., Foundation Co., Radio, New Haven, North American Co., International Paper and Sears Roebuck were other issues making marked gains.

Olis were still secumulated, Skelly and Pan-American issues reaching new maximum prices. Some of the standards, however, sagged, California yielding a point. Coppers moved in a narrow range.

Others Fall Back.

Baldwin Locomotive, Bayuk Cigar, Jurtiss Aero, Continental Baking A, fontgomery Ward, Graham Paige and fright Aero fell back about 2 to 5 loints, and National Lead lost 2½ coints on Mr. Cornish's statement. commodities moved in narrow ranges, ins losing a cent or two a bushel on easiness over the outcome of farmer measures, and cotton encountersome selling on bearish weather, closing steady.

THIS recently issued book discusses from a timely, up-to-date standpoint the many-sided problem of investment. The F. H. Smith Company publications are read year after year by thousands of investors all over the world. The book not only discusses sound First Mortgage Bonds, but also describes other types of securities which, in many instances, earn higher returns. It also explains why modern city real estate affords exceptionally strong security to both large and small investors. It deals, too, with the many safeguards developed by this protection of its investors.

FLAG GOES UP -And Red Sox-GO DOWN WESTBROOK PEGLER _

NEW YORK, April 18.—They finally got around to their marching and flag raising at the Yankee Stadium this afternoon and soon after the ball game began there was a crack-ling sound as Babe Ruth lashed one on a long hump-backed flight into the first floor of the left-field casino, his first home run of the year, cone in his first time at bat. That one loosened the customers and set them to yelling and the baseball season was under way in New York.

The Yankees were playing Will Carrigan's Boston team, the Red Sox, and won, 7 to 3. It was no fit P. M. for a game of ball, being very blowy and cold, and the customers, who showed up in meager numbers, were done up in woollies and blankets and spent much of their time running up the aisles to where the coffee boilers waved their isunty niumes of steam. You their jaunty plumes of steam. You could have killed all over 20,000 in the ball yard without compounding so much as a misdemeanor, for the bleachers held no quorum, the upper deck was barely spotted with trade like a population map of Nevada, and the crowd in the two lower tiers thinned ut to no crowd at all in the wings.

Along to Watch Him. Mr. Ruth fetched his new family ong to watch him at his wage earn-g, and the madam's public debut as Babe Ruth's missus was auspicious, for the attendance soon identified her, and to impress his new ma.

Whether Mr. Ruffing's next one was his swift or his fancy, I could not tell, for I was watching the way Mr. Ruth squats back on his rear leg and waves the right one, then gives a heave and a hitch and come down, pivoting on the right one as the bat comes around.

Touring Familiar Course. The Boston right fielder, a stranger named Scarritt, was chafing his back against the right field wall, waiting for the Babe's business which usually goes that way and the other two outfield-ers were merely standing idly by, humping their shoulders against the

The Babe must have heaved a mite The Babe must have heaved a mite late on this one because it jumped off the bat about 40 degrees off the customary course of his home runs. It was a rainbow fly, but with a lot of go behind it and it did not touch until it was thirty rows back in the seating capacity in left field. Mr. Ruth was somewhat dubious about it himself because he stood there flicking the bat until he saw it light, before setting out at a sedate lope on his tour of the old familiar course. He raised his cap very mannerly as he rounded third, and waved it to the little woman, sitmannerry as its to the little woman, sit- Tech Nine Scores 5 Runs in

A Left-Handed 2d Baseman In Town

THE ultimate in baseball has been recorded in Washington at the same time that Business High School reaches new heights. Business has had a little bit of everything in athletics. It has been a long time since they have had a good team. They're athletics. It has been a long time since they have had a good team. They've had to cancel games, they've had to postpone games, they've nad to forfeit games, they've had to play ineligible players, and at one time they were known to have had a nontackling quarter back. They have had little good luck, they've had much bad luck, but today Business reaches out for fame and in a sense has found it.

A left-handed second baseman, believe it or not, will start when Busi-lieve it or not, will start when Business takes the field against Western High in an interhigh baseball game at the Eastern Stadium at 3:15 o'clock. Coach Lynn Woodworth of Stenographers has made the rounds of the school during the past week, ask-ing each able-bodied male student, "Are you a second baseman?" Woodfound many who admitted as worth much, but were unable to prove it with a glove on their hand.

Move May Be Strategic One;

Newman Is the Volunteer. Inasmuch as Bucky Harris played a ne-armed left fielder last year and finished fourth in the American League, two. Pladner one, with the other even. Pladner was dominating the fifth when the disqualification came.

Fight fans, angered by the loss of the world's title, attacked Genaro and his seconds as they left the ring. A bottle was hurled at Manager McCarney, striking him on the arm, and a spectator kicked Genaro.

McCarney refused a return bout in France but said Genaro would fight Pladner in the United States.

The Swiss and American judges said.

Woodworth figures that a left-handed second baseman might keep him out of the cellar in the high school series. RED SOX FACE MARBERRY TODAY

Former Nats Are Here With Boston Club; "Ladies' Day."

ITH the first "Ladies Day" of the season scheduled for this afternoon and the Red Sox, on which are five former Nationals, fur-nishing the competition, a large crowd is expected to flock to the Georgia Avenue Stadium. Washington fans, no doubt, will welcome the opportunity of taking a look at Bob Reeves, Grant Gillis, Elliot Bigelow, Horace Lisenbee and Milton Gaston in Boston livery, as all of this flock were turned over to Manager Bill Carrigan for Third Base-man Buddy Myer last December.

Reeves, at third, is the only one of these discards playing regularly, al-though Lisenbee and Gaston will see plenty of service, while Bigelow is rated highly as a utility fly chaser and pinch hitter. Lisenbee has been complaining of a sore arm this spring but the muscle doctor to whom he was sent could discover nothing wrong and "Lizzie" has been told to get busy and work out the stiffness. Many other new faces will be seen the Carrigan cast. Shortstop Ha Rhyne was obtained on waivers from Philadelphia, while Infielders Bob Bar-rett and Jerry Standeart were drafted from Buffalo and Memphis, respectively. Catcher Bob Asbjornson, called Asb by the scribes to fit in the box-score blanks, is another promising rookle. He was purchased from Akron.

The Red Sox were one of the Nats' hardest opponents last season and, in the hopes of getting away to a good 1929 start, Johnson plans to use Fred Marberry in the box. As the big Texan har added a good curve to his fast one, has expected to give the Sox plenty of trouble. Either Danny MacFayden or "Big Ed" Morris is expected to for the visitor

N EW YORK, April 18 (A.P.).—A daring and successful effort of the New York Yankees and Bosthe New York Yankees and Bos-ton Red Sox to open the belated major league baseball season in New York to-day was dwarfed by a demonstration for Babe Ruth, the world champions' bride-groom and home-run hitter, immedi-ately after hostilities closed on the field.

Hundreds of fans surrounded the Big Babe as soon as the final Red Sox out was registered and he literally had to be rescued from his friends. The Yankees won their first game of the season by a score of 7-3, but to a portion of the crowd of approximately 35,000, this was only an incident. Ruth was vital and he was caught before he could reach the Yankee dugout. could reach the Yankee dugout.

Possibly the slugger's friends were trying to extend twofold congratulations on his marriage yesterday and inauguration of another home-run cam-paign by a circuit clout on his first time at bat today. Whatever their pur-pose as they milled about the big out-

On his first chance right is no joke. On his first chance with his left foot far back in the bater's box, he hoisted one of Ruffing's curves far into the left field bleachers. Ira Flagstead, patroling that sector at the time for the Red Sox, is a man thoroughly home-run wise and he took only two steps toward the stands before giving up that quest as hopeless. Later the big Babe flied to center and one into the right field bleachers.

Under the weather circumstances any baseball was remarkable. George Pipgras and Charlie Ruffing, the starting pitchers, went along for six innings with a debit against them of only three chilled hits each. Pipgras was finally forced out in the sixth when he ran his total of bases on balls to nine and Ruffing retired in the same inning for a pinch hitter.

Warning in 5th Inning.

Without warning Hadley collapsed as the minions of Mack broke out into a rash of base hits encouraged by a streak of wildness on the part of another of Walter Johnson's pitching aces, three of which have now been trumped by the Macks in the two game series here. For four innings Hadley was the complete master of the Macks, and then the panic began, and before it was over Lloyd Brown ad been enmeshed in the thing, which resulted in six runs from three singles, three doubles and two walks.

To guarantee matters in favor of the Mackmen, Rube Walberg pitched on the theory that the Nats are not enthusiastic about southpaw hurling of any brand. The theory was not disproved yesterday despite the fact that the Nats made seven hits and a couple of runs. The mad neighing of the horses about 7:30 o'clock led to the discovery of the fire, which is believed to have broken out in or near the Whitney stables, and trainers and stable boys began the fight before the arrival of apparatus from the Town of Havre de Grace, which soon sent out a general alarm that brought companies from Port Deposit, Aberdeen, Perryville, Northeast, Elkton and Belair. The fire is believed to have started in the quarters of stable boys who were cooking with a gasoline stove.

CATHOLIC U. BLANKS BUCKNELL FOR FIRST VICTORY

Hurley Holds Bisons to 3 Hits

Cardinals' Star of 1928 in Rare Form in 4-0 Win.

Take Lead in Opening Inning on Pair of 3-Base Hits.

THE worm turned, not to mention the reversal of the tables or the fact that to every cloud there is a aliver lining, in yesterday's ball game at Brockland Stadium, and lo and behold, Catholic University scored its first victory of the season by the simple expedient of not allowing its opponent, Bucknell, a single run. The score was 4 to 0.

Yes, sir, the Cardinals heaved their losing habits over into the adjacent railroad yards and opened a new page in their little book. They forgot there ever was such a thing as losing six straight games at the beginning of the season—which was the painful truth concerning their efforts previously—and put up a brand of baseball that was not to be denied.

Walsh Give C. U. Lead. With Big Lou Hurley, the New Havenite, who had an awful time trying to find his 1928 form in the earlier games, firing them past the Bison batters so effectively that the latter collected only three hits, the home boys took a new lease on life and subjugated the visitors without so much as a threat standing in their way.

Much as a threat standing in their way.

As Hurley kept the Bisons away from the plate by dint of a baffling display of curves and a change of pace, Catholic found Linkfield, the visitors' pitcher, rather easy to solve. They combed him for seven hits which, added to five bases on balls and a couple of errors, sufficed to put the game in the ice box.

The Cardinals hopped off to a one-run lead in the first inning when Walsh and Mansfield tripled, the former scorring. Two runs were added in the fifth when, after two were out, Flanagan singled to count E. Cosker and Mansfield who had singled themselves. The final tally was made in the eighth with the aid of an error by Brumbaugh. Bucknell second baseman, who formed a human sieve for Walsh's roller and permitted Flanagan to romp home after

However, he sent up a promising young fellow from the Tammady Stable named Joe McKee and that boy pitched the equivalent of a 12-inning ball game playing catch with the photographers who would catch the ball and ask him to throw it over again, before somebody fell over the bulkhead laughing rudely. At this, I think, Mr. McKee began to suspect that they were grinding blanks in the movie boxes and pressing the no sale key on the still cameras. "Please throw it over again, Mr. "Please throw it over again, Mr. McKee," the boys would say. "I missed that half profile angle. Did you ever pitch in the major leagues, Mr. McKee?" And then, when they finally began the ball game, after the flag raising and the horn blowing and presentations of wrist watches to the Yankees, some-body quite forgot to have anybody throw out the first ball, after all. George Pipgras just walked out to the box with a ball in his hand and started pitching.

DEVITT PREP Tourney Leaders Shuffled READY FOR MEET

Tomorrow.

LEADERS in the three classes of the Classes of the Classes at Hilltop Tomorrow.

PREPARATIONS are complete for the second annual Devitt Preptrack and field meet to be held tomorrow at the Georgetown University field, beginning at 10 o'clock. Final plans were made last night by Walter F. Palmer, director of games and coach of the Devitt Prep Team, and J. Leighton "Count" Cornwell, faculty advisor.

The meet this year bids fair to surpass anything of its kind here in several years, so large is the entry list and so pretentious is the progarm of events. The entry list now shows 35 teams. The Mercersburg Academy, winner in the prep school division last year, alone has 53 entrants in the year since the countributed a 375 set. Last night's Elister Rust Year, alone has 53 entrants in the year since the collasses of the Machalifle, McDanaid, Heltman Folius. Dwyer.

The Progressive Printing Team of the District League set the pace for Class A bowlers with a noteworthy set of 1,668, although the team is the first to bow in its class.

The Yorke Auto Supply Team took the lead in Class B with a total of 1,648, while the Peoples Drug Co. Newark Prep, of Newark, N. J.; Episcopal High, of Alexandria: Pierce School, of Philadelphia, and Mount St. Joseph's, of Baltimore, also have large entry lists. Devitt Prep has about the largest collection of athletes entered for schools here, although Tech, Eastern and Central, in the high school group, are well represented.

Special Trophies to Be Given to Winners in Relays.

All heats in winning events and the field trials will be held in the morning tomorrow with the finals starting in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Scoring of points for the trophies will be as follows: First place, 5 points; second place, 3 points; third place, 1 point. No points will be given for relays, as separate trophies will be awarded in these races.

Father Vincent McDonough has been named honorary referee, while Mike Thompson, of Georgetown, will act as chief referee. Joe Marr will be the official starter, while Yank Robbins will be the clerk of the course.

Mothers Who Work Out.

In theory I believe that it is perfectly proper for married women to seek employment outside the home when the home responsibilities are not large. Theoretically I have sanctioned mothers working when their only home responsibility has been their husband.

The there's trouble.

Give up your job if your child is young and open a nursery school and take in some other children? That's good, except mother may not have the training nocessary to run a pre-school affair and would therefore not get any children.

Love-Lorn Young Lady.

Today I received a letter which says:
"I know of no more important moment in the day than in which my small son comes pelting into the house from school shouting for 'Mom' at the top of his lungs. 'What is it?' I ask, thing-ing something tremendously important "ing something tremendously important has happened. 'Oh, nothing,' is the answer, 'I just wanted to know that you are there.'"

Mother! Where Are You?

There is a lot of meat in that coco-nut. Children want to know that their

mut. Children want to know that their mother is there. It's the working out mother who isn't there that soon fixes the child so he isn't either. To him home is a place to go when everything else in town is closed.

But—oh, you big word!—there are thousands of mothers working out who have no husbands and who would have no home if they didn't work for it with their own hands. Each fought in the divorce court perhaps, for the child thay dearly love, and now it's an eternal fight to keep a home for child and self.

To be sure the child is in school five or six hours a day and is therefore in age hands for these hours. But the rest of the time he is on the street, meals irregular. Stomach filled with corner-shop products and the house cold and dark.

"Mon" simply is not there that all

And the sad thing is, she can't be.
Now what can she do about it? Marry

Theoretically, in common with others, I have thought that it is advisable for a mother who does not know much about the raising of chidren to turn them over to a nursery school where they could be brought up right and then go out and earn the money to pay the pedagogical bills.

But—oh, you little word!—theory is one thing and practice is another. For working mothers write me that their children are running the streets and getting too independent—even getting into serious mischief. These mothers are not fighting theories, they are face to face with a very definite situation.

Takes and would therefore not get any children.

Now, good folks help me. So Isr I have answered to the best of my ability every request along the line of to-day's little heart-to-heart talk. Obviously the mother who has solved the problem does not write me. It's only those who want help who write. Please, Spartan Mothers, tell us how you are doing it. Your answers will give strength and courage to the thousands who are in the fix you are in. They need you. Please tell me that they may read your published letter. I shall not use your name.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

My daughter is love-crazy over a young man. It is ridiculous for a girl of seventeen to be thinking of getting married. I have in mind a small college for women where she can be sent to settle down. What do you advise? WEARIED MOTHER. MEARIED MOTHER.

Answer—Poor idea. Some evening the fellow will drive up in a high-powered, purring motor (in such cases they are always high-powered and they always purr) and carry her off. Send her to a large, coeducational university and soon she will be writing to him. "Sorry, dear, but I am so busy these days that. &c." It may be lessons, girl compan-

Federal Issues Alone Turn Soft; Carrier Group Leads in Advance.

BUYING AGAIN IS HEAVY

New York, April 18 (A.P.).-With ails leading the upward march, the sond market scored another general bond market scored another general adance today on the steady recovery that began last week after the peak of the credit stringency appeared to have been passed.

The advance was one of the widest bonds have made in a long time and virtually the entire list benefited. United States Government obligations were exceptions. They turned soft in the late trading in a fairly large turnover.

Sales, totaling nearly $10,000,000, were the heaviest since the bond market sagged to it slowest level of the year late in March when soaring money rates were forcing lightless to stock. 7 Bulgaria, King of, 7½s, 1968 year late in March when soaring money rates were forcing liquidation in stocks and bonds and offering stiff competition to the coupon securities.

Since the late March depression bonds, measured by the Associated Press averages of 40 bonds, have recovered nearly a point and the combined average is now 95.68 against 95.45 a month ago. The recovery of the first-grade rails has been the most rapid, first-grade rails has been the most rapid.

Until the recent improvement, many of the rails were selling at what bond students considered bargain prices. Investors turning to bonds have hastened to take advantage of the tituation, at the same time keeping in mind the stronger earning position of the railroads. Amendment of the New York banking law to broaden the list of legal rails for saving banks also has helped the carrier obligations.

rails for saving banks also has helped the carrier obligations.

Atchison General 4s moved up to a new high for the year at 94, but slipped back a fraction before the close. The 5 per cent rail bonds firmed all along the line, the Boston & Maine selling up to a point and a half. Other strong rails, 5t. Louis 5s and Adjustment 5s, Illinois Central 6½s, which gained more than 2 points, Missouri, Kansas & Texas Adjustment 5s, New Haven issues, Southern Railways General 4s, and Frisco issues. of a point or more were scattered in the rail list.

The industrials and utilities also commanded better prices, with Goodyear Tire 5s continuing to move into new high ground. New York City Traction issues again displayed weakness. The Third Avenue Adjustment 5s sank to a new low at 47.

Foreign issues were in wider demand mostly higher, but price move-ts were narrow, compared with the estic bonds.

FIXING

RESPONSIBILITY and the investment of your funds

IXING responsibility on a single Investment House is always more satisfactory and profitable than dividing it among many. At least, that is the opinion of clients who transact investment business exclusively with Shannon & Luchs, Inc.

Nearly a Quarter Century has passed since we sold the first Mortgage Note to the first customer. Through two financial panics and a world war. Shannon & Luchs two financial panics and a world war, Shannon & Luchs First Mortgage Notes have always qualified 100% in Value and 100% in Safety, and during this period no investor in this preferred medium has ever lost a penny in either principal or interest. Be governed by the profitable experience of other

Now is the time to determine where you are going to invest your Funds. Several new issues of Shannon & Luchs First Mortgage Notes are available today in denominations of $100 up.

608 12th St. N.W. THIS IS THE MAN UNDER A POSITIVE GUARANTEE

Absolutely the very best one to consult

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry, whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds, whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Tells you exactly what you wish to know.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION. L. L. PERKINS

I WILL BOND TOU

CHEVY CHASE, D.C.

PRICE, $15,500

Detached, center hall, 8-room and 2-bath house. It is an outstanding buy at the price. Corner lot 75x150, of substantial enstruction, stucco over hollow tile, with slate roof. Also breakfast room, a large concrete covered porch adjoining the living room. The four sleeping rooms and two tiled baths, plus a large attic, all help to make this the most attractive buy in Chevy Chase at the price.

RESORTS

Crisp, clear Alpine air. What zest for golf on a sporting 18-hole course... for tennis... for a dive into pleasant warm sulphur waters of an outdoor pool. And those trails that lead to lakes sky-high amid glaciers. Or to Bow River Falls... three minutes to awildsong of water as it crashes through space. No wonder the Canadian Pacific chose this setting for Banff Springs Hotel! PACIFIC

Dallinger Introduce Measure in House; Claims Workers

tion of the various departments, bureaus and commissions of the Federal Government was introduced in the House late yesterday by Representachusetts

Under the terms of the measure Hoover would be granted two years in which to abolish, transfer or reorganize the many offices in the Federal structure. If the job is not completed in that time, however, Dallinger thinks that the period could be extended.

The bill, Dallinger said, would result in a tremendous saving—probably 30 or 40 per cent—and also would mean an eventual reduction in the number of workers. He insisted, however, that this reduction would be painless.

Plan Discussed With Hoover.

"I talked the reorganization plan over with Mr. Hoover while he was Pres-ident-elect," the Massachusetts mem-ber said, "and he agreed with me that the reduction in personnel could be gradual and without hardship on the

The representatives of the various departments and bureaus immediately isunched a lobby against the plan, and it got nowhere. They wanted to continue the present wasteful system.

"Would Not Hurt Workers."

"President Coolidge also tried to get action on the plan, but he was no more successful. Why should not we trust the President to order this reorganization himself, as my bill would author-ize him to do? Senator Norris, chairman of the judiciary committee, said yesterday that he felt that President Coolidge had no right to send a batch of nominations to the Capitol at the last minute, and it was for that reason John Lewis Smith for the post. Smith, a local attorney, had served as president of the Hoover and Curtis Club in the last campaign.

Coolidge, however, ignored the local leaders, and nominated Henry G. Glassie, of Chevy Chase. Although strong protests were made against Glassie, the Senate judiciary committee made a fewership report on his minute, and it was a that reason that no action was taken by the committee. The Nebraskan made it clear that he held nothing against Wheat.
